

the Standard Scoop

Sept. 22, 2023

a weekly briefing

The News.

Today from 9 -11 a.m., representatives from 90 institutions will gather in the Farmer Gym for the school's third annual No Name College Fair.

Administrative Assistant Terri Okpoyo said concealing the name of each university to begin the Fair allows students to see past reputation and has attracted more representatives through "word of mouth."

Okpoyo said admissions officers appreciate the opportunity to talk with students free from the perception of their school's prestige.

"More people stop at their table," Okpoyo said. "Otherwise, it's really just name and reputation."

The names of the institutions will be uncovered halfway through the Fair at 10 a.m.

Reporting by Clara Martinez

The Photo Spotlight.

The crew team prepares for practice at a boathouse in Chiswick alongside the Thames Sept. 18. Crew is the only three-season sport with training four to five times per week. Photo by Laila Taraporevala

The QR.

The Highlight.

ON DAYZ

"We went to a nude beach in Brighton."

- Jaden Gardiola, Culture Editor

The Lowligh.

ON SELF-THERAPY

"Checking off every box on the self-therapy sheet is my problem."

- Anna Reznick, Culture Editor

Next Week

Monday

Sept. 25
DAY 4
Jazz musicians return from AMIS Honor Festival in The Hague.

Tuesday

Sept. 26
DAY 5
AP Chinese field trip to the British Museum.

Wednesday

Sept. 27
DAY 6

Thursday

Sept. 28
DAY 7

Friday

Sept. 29
DAY 8
Varsity soccer, volleyball and field hockey matches.